

Factsheet, FI Global Macro Equities ETF Portfolio

31 March 2026

Objective

We have constructed a global equity portfolio using a macro, top-down investment style. To capture a better risk-return profile, we have chosen market segments that may vary from consensus views, and we achieve this with a selection of low-cost Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs). The investment objective is to track the growth of global equity markets over a longer-term basis to offer a balanced exposure to global equity performance.

Equity allocation and investment decisions are made by the investment committee led by Paul Sedgwick using the firm's macro analysis. The portfolio will be consistently invested in a mix of equity market segments. Individual ETF selection to implement the equity strategy will focus on developed economies with a small exposure to emerging markets. The funds are selected for low cost and high liquidity to allow investors to access their capital at any time should they wish to. Investors' assets are held in their own name in managed accounts with our custodian.

Investment Thesis

The investment thesis is to provide returns in line with chosen global equity indices, supported by active management in allocation. Although the underlying assets will be passive funds tracking leading global indices, the portfolio will be continually monitored to track the desired asset allocation. Currently, our strategy has a higher allocation to UK equities than traditional world indices and a lower exposure to leading US indices. We believe that the UK All-Share index exposure to resources and financials, whilst being underweight technology, remains a sound allocation given the resilience of the equity index.

Market View

After the strong positive sentiment that drove markets higher in the first two months, the escalation of the conflict between the US and Iran led to 5 consecutive weeks of negative returns for global indexes, as oil prices rose by over 60% at one point. Equity and bond markets never react well to a spike in oil prices; the former fears lower growth, while the latter fears higher inflation. The combination of stagflation is a market and central bankers' worst nightmare. As a result, most developed markets entered a correction, defined as a 10% decline from the previous peak. Yields across the curve rose as investors rowed back their expectations of rate cuts and started to price in the possibility that the next move could be up. We will soon be entering the 1st quarter earnings season, where expectations are high for another strong quarter of earnings growth.
